
The authors propose a local interface to code and decode information needed and provided in the interoperation of cooperating information systems. The interfaces are developed according to the high-level architecture HLA and FEDEP its federation oriented extension. A proposed MDA and HLA framework supports model reengineering aimed on recovering relevant information from legacy information systems for interoperability interface development. A very detailed illustrative example demonstrates the applicability of the proposal.

Intern. Journal of CIM, Vol. 27, Nr. 4, pp 313-332
Contact: zhijing.tu@ims-bordeaux.fr